Graduation Ceremonies Policy

1. Aims and Rationale

1.1 This policy establishes the forms of academic dress for members of the University of Divinity, and the rules for the wearing of academic dress at University ceremonies by members of the University and by visitors and guests.

2. Scope

2.1 This policy applies to all members of the University, including students, graduands, alumni, academic and professional staff and office-bearers.

3. Principles

3.1 The forms of academic dress at the University enhance the reputation of its awards and honour the academic achievements of its members.

3.2 The University provides enduring forms of academic dress that ensure alumni are easily able to identify the correct form of dress for their degrees, diplomas and certificates.

3.3 Graduation ceremonies and other ceremonial occasions are appropriately ordered, according respect to the Chancellor and senior office-bearers as representatives of the University and honouring the academic achievements of the University's members, visitors and guests.

4. Rules for wearing academic dress

4.1. Academic dress is worn by all members of the University at graduation ceremonies.

4.2 The form of academic dress at other University events may be determined by the Vice-Chancellor. These rules apply when academic dress is worn at other University events, unless the Vice-Chancellor determines otherwise.

4.3 The academic dress worn by senior officers of the University is set out in Schedule A to this Policy which may only be amended by the Council.

4.4 Members of the University (other than graduands of the University attending a graduation ceremony) wear the academic dress of their highest qualification as prescribed by the awarding institution, provided that when such a member holds two qualifications of the same level the member wears the academic dress of only one of the awards.

- 4.5 At a graduation ceremony graduands must only wear the academic dress of the award they are receiving at that ceremony. Graduands who already hold an academic award (whether from the University or from another institution) may not wear the academic dress of that award.
- 4.6 At a graduation ceremony graduands who are receiving two or more awards must wear the academic dress of only one of those awards, such that:
- a) graduands wear the academic dress of the highest award being received; and
 - b) where a graduand is receiving two awards at the same level, the graduand chooses to wear the academic dress of only one of the awards for the duration of the ceremony.

5. Forms of academic dress for awards of the University

5.1 Gowns

- 5.1.1 The gown for a diploma, bachelor degree, graduate certificate or graduate diploma is a Bachelor's gown of black fabric, featuring bell-shaped sleeves.
- 5.1.2 The gown for master's degrees is a Master's gown of black fabric, featuring full-length sleeves with an opening in the sleeve for the arms.
- 5.1.3 The gown for a doctoral degree features wrist-length bell shape sleeves and traditional pencil pleating gathered across the back and shoulders of the robe. The cuff of the sleeves features a coloured lining of 6.5cm and the front facing of the gown features a coloured lining of 10.5cm. A doctoral gown may be in the form prescribed for the full dress doctoral gown of the University of Oxford or of the University of Melbourne or in another style approved by the Vice-Chancellor.

5.2 Hoods

- 5.2.1 Hoods are in the Oxford Burgon style and, except for doctoral hoods which may be made of coloured fabric, are made of black fabric fully lined with colour.

5.3 Trenchers and Bonnets

- 5.3.1 A trencher (or mortarboard) is a black cap surmounted by a stiff black square with a black tassel. Trenchers are usually reserved for the academic dress of postgraduate awards.
- 5.3.2 A bonnet is a black velvet hat of circular shape with a brim, and braid and tassel in gold (unless otherwise specified). Bonnets are usually reserved for the academic dress of doctoral awards.

5.4 Colours and Styles

- 5.4.1 The colour and style of dress used for academic dress of each current award of the University is established in Schedule B which may only be amended by the Vice-Chancellor after seeking the advice of the Academic Board.

5.5 Historic Academic Dress

5.5.1 The colour and style of dress used for academic dress of each former award of the University is recorded in Schedule C. This information may only be amended by the Vice-Chancellor so far as is necessary to ensure the Schedule contains a complete record of academic dress for each forward award.

6. Date of next review

6.1 This policy must be reviewed no later than 31 December 2021.
